It Has Been a Privilege

Nearly twenty years ago, I was blessed by the opportunity to return to my home synagogue, Temple Shalom in Aberdeen, to honor my rabbi who was retiring. Three of his students were on the bema that night to honor Rabbi Henry Weiner. Each of us was ordained as a rabbi during his tenure. Rabbi Weiner told the following story that night:

A rabbi was nearing retirement and wanted to teach his students an important lesson. To do so, the teacher directed each of them to go out into the forest and select one twig and bring it to him.

When they returned, he asked the eldest student to take his twig and to break it in half. The stick snapped with great ease. The rabbi then gestured for the second student to do the same. It broke in two with very little effort. The third student also was asked to sever his stick, and he completed the task in an instant.

The three students were asked to return to the forest to find a second twig that was the same width and length as the first. When they returned the sage took a piece of thread and bound the three twigs together. He then handed the small bundle to the first student and asked him to break it in half. The student tried but could not snap the twigs. Neither could the other two students. This time, the sticks remained intact.

The story is a terrific illustration for those of us who cherish synagogue life. Remember that our Jewish identity burns brightest when it is fueled by being a part of a sacred community with people who are there for one another in moments of need and times of celebration.

The blessing of acceptance in the world around us has lulled many Jews into forgetting that we are a precious few and that we cannot afford to allow ourselves to become fragmented. We need to bind ourselves together and build bridges that connect us one to the other. Beth Chaim needs you at this critical juncture in its history and, I hope you will agree, you need Beth Chaim! Remember--strength comes from unity!

It has been a privilege, honor and joy to spend a year and a half getting to know many of you and to be part of Beth Chaim's nearly 50-year journey for a moment in time. You are blessed to have talented and passionate professionals -- Rabbi Blum, Cantor Binder, Ann Berman-Waldorf and Mira Berzofsky -- an amazing faculty and staff, and dedicated and skilled lay leaders, to insure that CBC will remain a shining light to the greater Windsors community. Yes, there will be challenges along the way, especially as we move towards a post-Coronavirus new reality, and yet I am convinced that your stellar leadership team will insure a bright tomorrow.

Thank you for welcoming our family into your lives. Naomi, Joshua, Ari, Benjamin and I join together in wishing you and your loved ones good health and blessing in the months and years to come.

L'shalom,
Rabbi Brian K. Beal

A Message from Your New Senior Rabbi

When I arrived at Congregation Beth Chaim as its newest rabbi six years ago, I was filled with excitement, uncertainty, and an eagerness to learn. Excitement at returning to the Jewish community of my youth, at meeting new people, and at being welcomed into a synagogue striving to make meaning and find sacred purpose in its members' lives. Uncertainty about how my family and I would fit in or what I would be able to accomplish during my tenure at CBC. And an eagerness to learn as much as I could about our community's culture and about the kind of rabbi I wanted to be.

Now, as I take the mantle of senior rabbi at Congregation Beth Chaim, I am filled with similar emotions. Excitement at the potential inherent in our community abounding with caring and dedicated congregants. Uncertainty due to Covid-19 and the demographic changes in our area. And an eagerness to lean into my new role and responsibilities.

I have been preparing for this moment for many months. I have been looking and listening, envisioning and planning, weighing both the challenges and the opportunities before us. While we have missed coming together in person because of the pandemic, we are seeing more people attend worship services and classes via Zoom than before. As I meet with congregants to share my vision of the future and hear how Beth Chaim has powerfully shaped our members' past and present, I see how our synagogue has been a spiritual home to people of all backgrounds. We are a dynamic and diverse community, and I am ready to be your senior rabbi. I am also incredibly grateful to each and every one of you who has invested in me, guided me, and supported me throughout my time at CBC. This includes both Rabbi Wisnia and Rabbi Beal, as well as the team of dedicated staff whom I have had the honor of guiding in recent months. I would not be able to lead Beth Chaim without all of you.

Two thousand years ago, Hillel the Elder taught: "Do not separate yourself from the community" (Pirkei Avot 2:4). This Rabbi of antiquity lived in a chaotic and uncertain world with many similarities to our own time. The Jewish community was at the mercy of strong and threatening external forces. It was also fraught with internal divisions, both religious and political. Hillel understood the power of coming together as a community, and he urged the Jewish people to maintain their communal ties. His message resonates with us as well.

Let us come together to learn about all that Jewish tradition has to offer. Let us come together in our shared search for meaning and inspiration. And let us come together to engage in Jewish life—actively, innovatively, passionately, and deeply. We need each other now more than ever. Join me in keeping Congregation Beth Chaim strong and secure.

Thank you for your trust,
Rabbi Adena Blum

A Farewell to the Presidency

This is my last newsletter column as your Congregational President. After 15 years (only kidding), it's time to pass the baton. Actually, it was 2 years and 7 months, longer than our regular term but shorter than the term of the US president. I can't sit here and say it was an uneventful presidency. When I became president on December 8, 2017 (a day that happens to be my anniversary), I inherited an Executive Director Search, and Rabbi Wisnia had announced his retirement. Along the way, we had triumph and tragedy. We hired Orly Klugman as our Executive Director, who ended up relocating to Wisconsin to be closer to her family, and we bid a grand farewell to Rabbi Wisnia at with several events and guest appearances culminating with a gala celebration in his honor. I ended up overseeing two Rabbinical searches, one that resulted in Rabbi Beal becoming our interim senior Rabbi (his and my terms end on the same day), and the other resulted in Rabbi Blum becoming our settled senior Rabbi effective July 1, 2020. I oversaw another search for an Executive Director, which resulted in the hiring of Mira Berzofsky, who joined us just in time for a pandemic and has done a terrific job amidst a lot of chaos.

Rabbi Beal has been an ideal interim Rabbi. He knew when he was hired that he would be walking away from Beth Chaim on June 30, 2020, but that didn't stop him from treating Beth Chaim as his home and going out of his way to meet as many congregants as he could. He put his own touch on services and worked seamlessly in partnership with Rabbi Blum and Cantor Binder. His excellent organizational skills enabled our clergy, staff and Board to get to another level. His skills at transitioning congregations have ensured that Rabbi Blum will be ready to go on July 1. His entire family, his wife, Naomi, and his three sons Joshua, Ari and Benjamin, often attended services and other Temple events even though they lived over an hour away. We will miss everything Rabbi Beal has brought to us over the past 17 months.

Our settled Rabbi Search Committee worked independently to come to the same conclusions as the Board did when Rabbi Blum was initially hired. Rabbi Blum's grace and poise won over the Board when she was hired as our Assistant Rabbi six years ago. Under the tutelage of Rabbi Wisnia and Rabbi Beal, we have watched her grow exponentially as a person and a Rabbi. Both of her boys, Jonah and Ari, were born while she was at Beth Chaim, and her husband Sean is a constant presence at Beth Chaim. It's been a privilege to work in Sacred Partnership with Rabbi Blum, and I look forward to her leading the Congregation for many years to come.

I'd be remiss if I didn't thank all of the staff and clergy, especially Cantor Binder and Anne Berman-Waldorf for everything that they have done for our community over the past several decades and for all that they continue to do.

Unfortunately, tragedy did hit our community during my presidency. We were deeply affected by the tragic 2018 shooting at Tree of Life Synagogue in Pittsburgh. Several of our congregants are from Pittsburgh and specifically the Squirrel Hill neighborhood where the synagogue is located. This was followed by a shooting in The Poway Synagogue in San Diego. In June 2019, there was a terrorist attack at a mosque in New Zealand, and Beth Chaim joined with our Muslim brothers and sisters at the local mosque to show our solidarity with their community, returning the favor when leaders of multiple faiths joined us after the Pittsburgh shootings. All of these were senseless events, but the entire community, Jewish and non-Jewish, came together to show how strong we are.

There were several local tragedies that hit us the hardest. A college student who became a bat mitzvah on our bimah was killed just because she was in the wrong place at the wrong time. Then we lost our congregant, Board member and friend, Jean Withers, about a year ago. Jean cared so deeply about Beth Chaim. I selected her to chair the Interim Rabbi Search Committee, knowing she was the perfect person for the job. She was uncertain at first as the role usually goes to a former president, but she embraced it, gained the respect of her fellow committee members, and did a great job. She always reached out to me to let me know what was on her mind or the minds of congregants, but she did so in a soft, wonderful way. Jean, you are deeply missed. Lastly, our community was affected by the sudden passing of Rabbi Adam Feldman of the Jewish Center of Princeton. Together we have mourned and sought comfort.

We thought the last few months would be a smooth transition to a new Senior Rabbi and new Congregational President, but COVID-19 had other ideas. If you thought we were busy before, the pandemic changed everything. We had to improvise and plan activities, services, children and adult education and pre-school without doing what we do best: greeting each other in the building. Zoom quickly became our best friend, and services are now attended by more people than when we were physically able to be in the building. Our clergy, staff, Board and committees have worked tirelessly, with meetings nearly every day of the week, so that we can provide continuous programming. The Congregational Passover Seder was a huge hit, and we look forward to providing more and more activities for our community.

I am turning the presidential reins to Rhonda Schaffler-Wydra, a well-qualified candidate to lead the Board and congregation. Rhonda led our Transition Committee, met and spoke with many of you, and through these conversations, the town halls, and surveys, she has a great understanding of what your hopes and dreams are for our community. I will be working very closely with Rhonda to ensure that the progress we have made over the past few years continues and is even improved upon.

I want to thank the Board, clergy and staff for their support through these times, especially when I was out with back surgery last fall. I will remember your kindness forever and appreciated all the get-well calls, visits and cards

Sincerely,
Ken Pogrob
Congregation Beth Chaim
President

Greetings from New Executive Director, Mira Berzofsky

The short time since I began my role at CBC has been interesting to say the least. In order to leave room for our Rabbis and Presidents, I will write a piece for our next email Update.

I look forward to getting to know all of you, online and in person.

President

A Message From Your New President

I am deeply honored to have been nominated to serve as the next president of Congregation Beth Chaim, at both an exciting and challenging time for us.

I have been a member here for about 20 years. I've served on the Board in different capacities and served as Transition Committee chair for the past two years. We've seen a lot of change during that time - Rabbi Wisnia retired, Rabbi Beal joined our congregation, and Rabbi Blum assumed more and more responsibilities to prepare for her new role as our next Senior Rabbi.

Throughout the transition period, our congregants voiced their ideas and hopes for our future. I am so impressed by our Beth Chaim members. Our congregational family includes dedicated volunteers, enthusiastic adult and youth learners, generous donors, and an increasing number of congregants who share the Sabbath together during our now virtual services. We are a passionate congregation, with a strong sense of community.

As I write this, we are currently still in the midst of the COVID-19 pandemic, which creates challenges for us as our building is closed. I hope that you and your family have remained healthy and well. I also hope that by the time you read this, we will soon be able to gather again in person.

But even with this pandemic, we have much to look forward to in the new year, including Rabbi Blum's Installation this fall. A weekend of events is planned, and we look forward to seeing you there! Our calendar will be full of social activities and opportunities for learning. And the High Holy Days will be here before we know it.

Our clergy, staff, and lay leaders work tirelessly to make Congregation Beth Chaim a place to make you feel at home. I am grateful to all of them and blessed to work in sacred partnership with them.

In the year ahead, I will work hard to engage our members, maintain the synagogue's financial health, and create an environment that encourages innovative thinking and actions. My hope is that all of our congregants grow even more connected to Beth Chaim. I'm excited to take the journey together with you.

Why is This Summer Different From All Others?

Let's Make these Two Months Count

As I'm writing this article, we are just beginning Bamidbar, the book of Numbers, the fourth in our Torah. This book, a census of the Jewish people, takes place in the wilderness. Literally, the wilderness, as our ancestors continue their journey from Egypt to Israel; and, on a metaphoric level, as they walk the unknown path from slavery to freedom.

As many of you know – I believe in signs. And this is a sign. How fitting to read about a time when our ancestors were lost as we sit and grapple with the unfamiliar situations in which we find ourselves – working from home, school on zoom, face masks and social distancing. None of us answered those when asked five years ago, "What do you see yourself doing in 2020!"

And, as you're reading this article, the Torah narrative has progressed. The Israelites become increasingly aware that they are closer to the Promised Land. The wandering takes on elements of familiarity; I imagine that the same people were always at the head of the line. By this point in the journey, our ancestors knew whom to turn to for advice and whom to ask for comfort or food. And so, too, with us...our upturned lives have become a bit more routine, the leaves have opened and the flowers blossomed; the days are getting hotter and the sun shines later each night. Our world is beginning to open, new strides are made each day as doctors and scientists learn more and more.

Part of what makes us – and our ancestors – feel comfortable in uncomfortable situations is ritual. Those actions that we repeat day after day or week after week which lend meaning to our lives. Judaism provides us with many opportunities for rituals that lend not only structure but also meaning to our lives. Shabbat each week, a time to rest and reflect. Moments of blessing to acknowledge the gifts in our lives and fixed times for study and prayer, times to grow our minds and nourish our spirit. Now, when the rest of our world can feel so unpredictable, these moments are more important than ever.

Summer, usually the time when we all go off our separate ways; children to camp; families on vacation in far away places – this summer will be different. This summer, our journeys will be closer to home; our days different without the usual activities which fill our time. This summer, our community will be more important than ever.

Beth Chaim is doing things a bit differently this summer. We will be offering activities for adults, for families and for children. Activities designed to continue the high level of learning and laughing that happen all year.

For adults – please see the Adult Summer Brochure contained in this newsletter. We have classes, Torah study and book clubs each month.

For families and children – we're trying something new – lots of things new! We will have...

- Conversational Hebrew – chat with an Israeli to learn Hebrew words
- Hebrew Reading Refresher – studnets will sign up in small groups for Hebrew practice
- On-line scavenger hunt for families
- Mitzva Mania-thon
- Weekly Torah Talk (emailed home each Friday morning)
- Family Havdalah
- Boker Tov (Good Morning) Tot Shabbat
- Hikes and Blessings – a guide to being outside and offering gratitude
- Jewish Art and Family Self-Portraits
- Virtual Travel
- Lego Challenges
- Partnering with Jewish summers camps to provide joint activities
- ...and the list goes on.

Each month (June, July and August), you will receive an email in your in-box with a listing of all the activities and how to sign up for those that appeal to your family. I am most excited to share that many of these programs will be run with the assistance of teen volunteers from our congregation.

Tradition tells us that the Jews wandered in the desert for 40 years; forty summers of Jewish living, learning and growing, moving ever closer to the Promised Land. Join us this summer and, in the spirit of our ancestors, use this time – and our programming – to move your Jewish life in the forward direction and together, as a community, we will join together to create a vibrant Jewish future.

The Last Dance

Like many of you, I really enjoyed the documentary on ESPN the last few weeks regarding Michael Jordan. As a Knicks fan, I always had a tremendous love-hate-love relationship with Jordan. It was unquestionable that he was the most talented player on the Court. There are many natural talents in the world, but what separated Jordan from, well, everyone is that he was a tireless worker and competitor. More importantly, he knew he could not win 6-Championships alone. He needed the support of his Coaches and teammates.

This month is my last month as Men's Club President. Over the past eight-years, I have served two-terms as President, and two-terms as Vice-President, assisting Joe Fontak and Jake Feldman. Before my first breakfast as President, I remember being very nervous to start the breakfast. In talking with one of the former Presidents of the group, he asked me why I was so nervous. I told him that I thought being President of Men's Club was a very big deal, and I still feel that way.

Thank you to all of the "Manly Men" of the Beth Chaim Men's Club. I have been so lucky to have the support, counsel, and encouragement of so many. This has always been your club, and I have been honored to steward the group through some really interesting times, including our current concerns. Putting on a good show and representing your interests at the Temple's Executive Committee meetings have always been my primary motivation.

When you have a moment, think of all we have accomplished together. Our breakfasts have run the gamut of speakers from stand-up comics, sports reporters, activists, historians, scientists, artists, authors, and many more. Our Purim Carnival has created positive Jewish memories for hundreds of children and their families. Together, we have made significant contributions to Temple both financially, and through our labor. We have been fortunate to have a tremendous scholarship program, that has transformed from a mere essay competition to an experience where we really can get to know the younger members of our community. I am so proud that we agreed this year to open our scholarship to all eligible students, regardless of gender or sexual orientation.

As Men's Club President, I never thought of myself as Michael Jordan. I always considered myself more the Steve Kerr of the group - the guy who could pass the ball really well, and occasionally hit a clutch three-point shot out of nowhere. Working together, through some challenging times, it really is the membership of the Beth Chaim Men's Club that should be considered the "Greatest of All Time." I confidently pass the ball to Norm Goldschmidt, and I look forward to seeing how this group continues to grow and succeed.

Grateful for Community

Our congregation and the world around us are going through challenging times. While we are in unprecedented territory, I am impressed by the resilience of our community. Beth Chaim congregants and constituents continue to remain actively engaged with the help of modern technology and the guidance of our temple leadership.

I am grateful we live in a time when we can connect in many ways while remaining apart by necessity. Now more than ever, we need to maintain our connections. Phone calls, emails, texts, video chats, even snail mail are crucial to keeping in touch. We need to maintain our community in order for its individuals to remain strong. We should appreciate each other more than ever in these challenging times. Thank our neighbors for looking out for us, thank those in our households for daily kindnesses, help our friends who need support.

With a focus on gratitude, I would like to thank the Sisterhood Board for their hard work and support of one another over the past year. Their dedication to Beth Chaim has made a real positive difference.

With a focus forward, hopefully we will all have the opportunity before too long to, once again, gather in person as a community for prayer, learning and fun.

Without community, we are alone. While we are apart, we can count on our community.

Temple Reopening

As we are reminded in a recent publication by the Union of Reform Judaism, regarding the idea of Pikuach Nefesh, "Saving human life is Judaism's highest mitzvah, superseding even the commandment's concerning the observance of Shabbat. According to tradition, it was permissible to interrupt the ancient Temple, when necessary to save a life." Our religious and personal lives have been interrupted in ways we never could have predicted. We very much hope that you and your family are safe, and healthy. The Clergy, Education Staff and Board hope that Beth Chaim has provided you with comfort and support through our weeks of wandering through a virtual desert.

The simple question on everyone's mind is the same: when will the building reopen? The simple answer: we do not know. We have formed a Task Force of experienced Temple leaders, medical professionals, business leaders, that will work with the Clergy and advise the Board about the best practices it will take to reopen Beth Chaim in a way that will be safe for everyone. Already, an engaged group of parents are working with the Education staff to talk about how the Pre-School and Religious School will operate. We will be guided by the State and Federal Government, and the Centers for Disease Control. We will also be guided by Union of Reform Judaism, who are already hard at work, and providing us with materials to think about how to reopen the building while taking into consideration Jewish values.

These are not easy times, and we have a lot of hard questions to answer in the coming weeks. Beth Chaim may not look the same when it reopens, but our goal is to make it feel the same in your heart. As Chairperson of the Reopening Task Force, feel free to reach out to me at wachtel@njlawyers.com if you have any questions, concerns, or suggestions. My 'virtual door' is always open, and I look forward to having more information for you soon.

I also went to Beth Chaim Pre-School, and a lot of my good friends, I met there and in Religious School. Beth Chaim is special to me because it's like a second home. Everyone here is family and we all embrace each other in open arms. I also love all the singing and dancing we do here. It's all so fun and it makes me as well as other kids want to come here. I hear others at my middle school groaning and moaning because they have to go to CCD or some other religious activity. Whereas I am excited to attend Hebrew High School every Wednesday, and not just because of the pizza!

I have been at Beth Chaim for as long as I can remember. My first time here I was a baby when I went to Toddler and Me with my mom and sister. Then I went to preschool, camp, Bagels and Blocks and Hebrew School. Now I love to be able to be a Toranit for the little kids on Sundays. It's something I look forward to every week. I will also continue to grow here as I become a Bat Mitzvah. So, Beth Chaim is special to me because we are all a family.

Tzom Tammuz

Shiva Assar B'Tammuz (the 17th of the Hebrew month of Tammuz) commemorates the breach of Jerusalem's walls by the Romans in 70 CE; the Second Temple was destroyed three weeks later, on the ninth of Av (Tisha B'Av—see below). This is a minor fast day (tzom meaning “fast”). For those who choose to fast, the fast begins at sunrise and ends at sunset. Many liberal Jews do not fast on the three minor fast days connected to the Temple: Shiva Asar B'Tammuz, Asara B'Tevet, and Tzom Gedaliah. Rabbi David Golinkin has concluded that these three fast days should be considered optional, in recognition of the redemptive possibilities of the rebirth of the State of Israel. We should, however, fast on Tisha B'Av, in order to acknowledge that we are still far from peace. This day begins the three-week mourning period ending in Tisha B'Av. The traditional practice is to avoid live music and public celebrations during these three weeks. This year Tzom Tammuz falls on July 9.

Tisha B'Av

Tisha B'Av commemorates many calamities that befell the Jewish people on this day, but it focuses on the destruction of the First and Second Temples. Reform Jews hold varying perspectives on this day, as many do not hope for the rebuilding of the Temple: some look upon the destruction of the Temples and the Jews' expulsion from Israel as an opportunity to realize our mission to disseminate knowledge of God throughout the world; these people do not necessarily relate to Tisha B'Av as a day of mourning. Others believe that, regardless of one's perspective on the destruction of the Temples and Diaspora, Tisha B'Av has resonance for us as a day to commemorate moments of sadness and tragedy for the Jewish people. The traditional prohibitions of Tisha B'Av are:

- Eating and drinking
- Sexual relations
- Bathing
- Using oils or lotions
- Wearing leather shoes
- Greeting one another

However, it is a tradition to study Jewish texts in the mood of the day, such as Job and Lamentations. This year Tisha B'Av falls on July 30. For those who choose to fast, the fast begins at sunset the night before and ends the following sunsets.

Tu B'Av

Tu B'Av is a post-Biblical holiday, though its exact origins are unknown. It served as a matchmaking day in Second Temple times and is described in the Talmud as one of the year's happiest days: young Jewish women would dress in white and dance in the vineyards, and young bachelors would follow them in search of a bride. The holiday was revived in the modern state of Israel and is now celebrated as a day of love (akin to contemporary Valentine's Day). This year Tu B'Av falls on August 5.

Rosh Chodesh Elul

Elul is the final month of the Jewish year, so it has come to be a time to prepare for the High Holy Days. Traditions for the month of Elul include doing a spiritual accounting of our actions over the past year, giving tzedakah (charity), reading extra Psalms (especially #27), and hearing the blast of the shofar every day. Rosh Chodesh is the first day of the month (literally “head of the month”), which takes place for this Elul on August 20.

Beth Chaim Summer Reading Series 2020

June 25, 2020

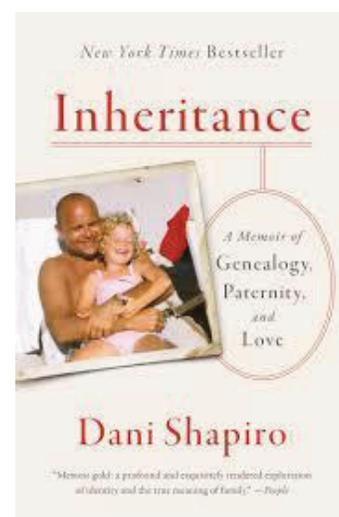

Sink or swim. Or at least that's what Annette Feldman tells herself when she books a cruise for her entire family. It's been over a decade since the Feldman clan has spent more than twenty-four hours under the same roof, but Annette is determined to celebrate her seventieth birthday the right way. Just this once, they are going to behave like an actual family.

Too bad her kids didn't get the memo.

July 23, 2020

In 1970, three-day-old Marra B. Gad was adopted by a white Jewish family in Chicago. For her parents, it was love at first sight—but they quickly realized the world wasn't ready for a family like theirs. Even in her own extended family, racism bubbled to the surface. The Color of Love explores the idea of yerusha, which means "inheritance" in Yiddish. At turns heart-wrenching and heartwarming, this is a story about what you inherit from your family.

August 27, 2020

What makes us who we are? What combination of memory, history, biology, experience, and that ineffable thing called the soul defines us? Inheritance is a book about secrets—secrets within families, kept out of shame or self-protectiveness; secrets we keep from one another in the name of love. It is a book about the extraordinary moment we live in—a moment in which science and technology have outpaced not only medical ethics but also the capacities of the human heart to contend with the consequences of what we discover.
